Trenthos IME

FOR MEDICO-LEGAL EXAMINERS AND THE AGENCIES THAT BOOK THEM

Read the brief in order, with every entry pointing to its page.

Upload the referral brief. Trenthos IME builds a chronology in date order with a page reference on every entry and flags what an examiner should check. It never drafts your opinion. Your files stay on our server in Australia.

A page reference on every entry

Files never sent to an outside AI service

482 quotes found word for word on the cited page

18 read by AI from a scanned page, not confirmed by a second reading

This sample was made on a test run with AI reading of scanned pages switched on. In the service today that reading is off, scanned pages are read by text recognition software (Tesseract), and this mark does not appear.

Flagged entries are kept and marked, never dropped. The same flags appear in the product and in every export.

THE PROBLEM

The reading is the job before the job.

A brief arrives as a few hundred pages of GP notes, discharge summaries, imaging reports, certificates and prior assessments, in no particular order. Before the examination can mean anything, someone has to work out what happened when, and where each fact sits in the file. That reading is slow, it is done late, and it is where a date gets misread or a report gets missed.

Trenthos IME does the ordering. You do the medicine.

HOW IT WORKS

Four steps, in the product's own order.

1. Upload
   The letter of instruction and the records as they arrived, typed or scanned, in the app. No sorting or splitting first. Each file gets a D-number, and every page is counted before anything is built.
2. Files checked
   Each page is read from its own text, or by text recognition when there is none. Pages the product detects as not read in full are listed with the chronology. The list is not complete.
3. Chronology ready
   16 minutes for the 100-page sample brief. Entries in date order, each with its page. Undated entries are labelled. Where sources differ, the topic view shows each reading side by side and does not say which is right.
4. Then
   You open any entry on its page, search by topic, and export to PDF or Word to sit beside your report. The export carries the same page references and the same flags. A disclosure annexure records the product's AI use for your report.

WHO IT IS FOR

Examiners, and the agencies that book them.

Examiners

- Occupational therapists, psychologists, psychiatrists, physiotherapists, GPs, surgeons and other specialists doing independent medical examinations, workers' compensation, CTP and permanent impairment work.
- The chronology is assembled and referenced before you start.
- You bring the examination and the opinion.

Agencies

- You book the examiners and send the briefs.
- A chronology built from the brief the examiner uploads, the same way for every matter, with every entry open to a check against its page.
- Your examiners can book a 20-minute walkthrough, and a doctor answers support.

Subscriptions renew monthly and can be cancelled online at any time, with no fee; access runs to the end of the month. If you go over your allowance, one more brief is allowed before you top up or move to a larger plan; you are never charged for extra pages without being asked.

The launch price is held for 12 months for anyone who starts by 30 June 2027, with 30 days' email notice before the list price applies.

The free trial is one brief of up to 50 pages, with no card needed. A trial cannot be turned into a paid matter. For the full chronology, start a paid matter and upload the brief again. No sales call needed. Start a trial and pay only if it earns its place.

TRUST

Where your files are, and who can reach them.

- Stored and processed in Australia, on computers Trenthos controls. That includes the AI models that read the pages.
- No outside AI service. Nothing from a brief is sent to a third-party model provider.
- Independent penetration test by a CREST-accredited Brisbane security firm, scheduled for December 2026. The attestation letter will be published on our Trust page.
- Deleted trial briefs are cleared from every backup within 21 days of the live deletion.

WHAT IT WILL NOT DO

What Trenthos IME will not do.

- It will not write or suggest your opinion.
- It will not send your files to any outside AI service.
- It will not count the same file twice. Re-uploads within 12 months and reprocessing are free.
- It will not charge for pages over your allowance without asking you first.
- It will not lock you out or delete anything in the first 14 days after a failed payment.

FREE TRIAL

Try it on your own brief, up to 50 pages.

Uploaded in the app, never as an email attachment. We aim to reply within one business day.
